And sure enough, as soon as Mike began to show him and enlarge upon the "catch" of my fishing, which I had brought home in a wide-mouthed bottle of slimy water, Bob was all attention.

By the time Mike had been put back into his box, Bob was ready to acknowledge that my chem was a mighty fine fellow.

STATE OF RHODE ISLAND AND PROVIDENCE PLANTATIONS.

THANKSGIVING PROCLAMATION

BY HIS EXCELLENCY

AUGUSTUS O. BOURN, Governor.

In accordance with a time honored usage, and the recommendation of the President of the United States, and by virtue of the authority vested in me by law, I, Augustus O. Bourn, Governor of the State of Rhode Island and Providence Plantations, do hereby appoint THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 29th, A. D., 1883, as a day of PUBLIC THANKSGIVING AND PRAYER. And I earnestly request the people on that day to cease from their usual avocations and assemble in their accustomed places of worship, there to render humble and hearty thanks to Almighty God, for the peace and prosperity which he has bestowed upon us as a nation for our beautiful harvest, for our preservation from pestilence, and for all His goodness and loving kindness to us and to all men; and humbly to beseech Him to bless our land, and defend the liberties inherited from our fathers, to preserve inviolate our grace as people to merit the continuance of the blessings He has showered upon us. And I charge those whom the Lord has prospered to thank Him by giving of their substance to those that have need, and remember that he that hath pity upon the poor lendeth to the Lord.

In testimony whereof I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Seal of the State to be affixed at Providence, this second day of November, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and eighty three, of the founding of the State the two hundred and forty-eighth, and of Independence the one hundred and eighth.

AUGUSTUS O. BOURN.
By the Governor,
JOSHUA M. ADAMS,
Secretary of State.

The Republicans carried Pennsylvania by 19,715 majority.

The Republicans in the Mississippi legislature must be loose, there are only 23 of them in 130 Democrats.

The majority of the Republican Secretary of State in New York is 19,000. Something of a change from the 200,000 majority given for Cleveland last fall.

Madison intends to come into the next Republican National Convention. He will make application to the National Committee at its meeting Dec. 12. If he does not get admitted what will he do then?

Randall says he will have from 85 to 90 votes on the first ballot for the Speakership, and that he will be nominated on the second ballot. He seems to have the matter settled in his own mind.

Providence yearns for its ex-Mayor once more and it looks now as though ex-Mayor Doyle was to be the coming man. Mayor Doyle is a live and energetic man and probably made the best Mayor Providence ever had.

Mayor Palmer does not propose to run again for Mayor of Boston. The Democrats have nominated Hugh O'Brien, a prominent business man and treasurer of the Brush Electric Lighting Co., for that place.

They have turned the race out in New York by electing as aldermen seven notorious men, each one of whom is in disreputable business, while three of the obnoxious group are under indictment for very serious crimes.

The delightful little fight for the Speakership of the next Congress goes bravely on. Randall, Carlisle and Cox are the prominent actors in the farce, and all three claim enough votes to elect themselves on the first ballot. Perhaps they will be elected but we doubt it.

The old ticket—Tilden and Hendricks—seems to be everywhere gathering ground among the Democratic party. It is evidently the strongest ticket with that party at the present time. Arthur is coming rapidly to the front as the Republican nominee. Both parties recognize the fact that New York will be the pivot on which the next election will turn.

The newspapers in Providence and the lawyers for the defence seem to be running the Warwick murder trial. The counsel for Congdon took up most of his time in opening the case in charging the papers with falsehoods. Perhaps he is correct on general issues, but in this case he will do well to confine himself to his client, for if ever a man needed a defence that man is Congdon.

President Cheate of the Old Colony Railroad does not have much of an opinion of the Cape Cod Canal Company. He says: "Here is a company with one stockholder, and that stockholder is Mr. Lockwood, and he has the power to change the contract as he desires. There is no day on Cape Cod Ship Canal Company at all."

It will require 201 electoral votes to elect the next President. The Solid South with its 153 votes is probably sure for the Democracy. They will only need 48 more votes to elect their candidates. New York, New Jersey, Ohio, Indiana and California may all be classed as doubtful States and more likely to cast their votes for the Democratic candidates than for the Republicans. On the whole, the average Democrat thinks that the chances are at least fair for success in 1884.

The Last of the Centennial Celebrations.

Evacuation day (Nov. 28th), is to be celebrated in New York with great eclat, and preparations are being made on a large scale. President Arthur has declined an invitation to be present, but it is thought that he will yet be persuaded to attend and unveil the government's statue of Washington on the steps of the treasury building. The governors of the original States have been invited to take part, and Govs. Butler of Massachusetts, and Waller of Connecticut, have accepted. The Governor's Foot Guard of Hartford, Ct., will march in the procession as an escort to Gov. Waller and his staff. They will wear their red-cloth uniforms of 1771, and will be accompanied by Col. A. band. About 3000 of the New Jersey militia will take part in the procession, along with the City Troop of Philadelphia, Newport Artillery, Providence Light Infantry and other visiting military organizations. The whole 2d division of the New York militia will parade under the command of Maj. Gen. Shuler. The old volunteer fire department will be represented. The procession will form in the neighborhood of the Windsor Hotel, which will be the headquarters of the principal invited guests, will move down Fifth Avenue to Washington square, or to Fourteenth street and Broadway, and thence down Broadway to Canal street. Gov. Cleveland will review the parade near the terminus. The procession will be composed of four parts, first, invited guests and honorary escort, second, organized military (including the federal troops and marines in the neighborhood), third, veterans and military orders, and fourth, civic societies. It is understood that 12,000 members of the Grand Army of the Republic, with twelve military bands, will take part in the procession, together with veterans of the national guard, veterans of the Mexican war, the Loyal Legion, the society of the Cincinnati and the veterans of the war of 1812, who will be carried in carriages. There will be a great parade of river steamers and tug-boats off the Battery. The participation of 472 vessels has been promised already.

Miss Kate Chase and Governor Sprague became enamored at a celebration given at Cleveland when the monument to Commodore Perry was unveiled. She was a guest of her father's most trusted friend, Col. Dick Parsons, at his house on Prospect street. Gov. Sprague came there with his full staff and a body guard, all in uniform, while he wore a quiet suit of black. He was then young and handsome, while she, with her graceful figure, clear complexion, chaste hair and expressive eyes, commanded the admiration of all who saw her. It was a case of mutual infatuation, which ended in matrimony. Her friends thought that she had secured "the barrel" necessary to make her father President, which was the foremost object of her ambition, and for some years the governor lavished money upon her. The bills for the enlargement of "Canonchet" from a country house into a chateau were simply enormous, and finally brought a remonstrance from the governor's brother who held the purse strings. Love, on each side of the house, gradually turned into hatred, and the devoted couple at Cleveland became enemies.

Ex Gov. Nathaniel Head died at Hooksett, N. H., Monday evening, after a long illness, aged 65 years. He was a prominent man in New Hampshire politics, and acquired a national reputation by the celebrated controversy in 1875 over the spelling of his name on the ballots for Senator in the second district. He had a plurality but the votes were thrown out by Gov. Weston and Council when they canvassed the returns, and the certificate was given to Hon. Joseph Frost, his Democratic opponent. He was elected to the State Senate for two succeeding years, the last of which he was President of that body. In 1878 he was nominated and elected as a Republican candidate for Governor, serving one term of two years. He was one of the most conspicuous members of the Masonic fraternity in the State, and was also an Odd Fellow and member of the Knights of Pythias.

A frightful scene occurred the other day at Clithy, in France. The police were sent by the authorities to take a raving madman to the parish asylum at the instance of the man's wife. The maniac, a man of great muscular power, got hold of a dagger and shut himself in a small room approached by a narrow passage. Eight policemen were directed to enter and secure him. On their breaking open the door they were met by the madman, who, striking out right and left, soon inflicted such injuries upon six of them that the party had to retreat. On more men being obtained a second entry was made, but it was not until after a desperate struggle that the madman could be secured and conveyed away. The proceedings were witnessed by a large and excited crowd.

The list of millionaires in Boston now numbers about two hundred and fifty persons. New York claims to have four hundred.

Of $10,000,000 left by the late Joseph P. Hale of New York, a cousin who cannot read or write will get a large portion.

The Time Standard.

While the railway companies of this country were perfecting a new system of time standards in the United States an international conference at Rome was endeavoring to establish a common meridian by which the time of the whole world should be governed. The conference has adopted the meridian of Greenwich, and it is expected that this action will be ratified by the nations of the civilized world. The plans of the railways in this country and of the Rome conference coincide so far as the United States are concerned, and this fact furnishes another argument in support of our new standards. With the prime meridian at Greenwich, there are to be twenty-three secondary meridians, just one hour apart in time, by which time in all parts of the world is to be regulated. Our railway time standard for the East—the seventy-fifth meridian—will coincide with the fifth secondary standard in the plan devised for the whole world, counting westward from Greenwich, and our other standards—those of St. Louis, Denver and Carson City—will coincide with other secondary standards adopted by the international conference. It appears, therefore, that our national system will virtually be a part of the cosmopolitan plan.

Where some of the leading Generals of the war are: General Sickles is a New York lawyer. Stoneman is Governor of California. Doubleday is in New York writing a book. Humphreys, Hunter and Crittenden, on the retired list; live in Washington. Fremont, no longer rich, lives in New York. McDowell is on the retired list. Buel is in business in Kentucky. Banks is United States Marshal. Hancock, Schofield and Pope are major generals in the army and Howard a brigadier. Schofield succeeded Sheridan in his late command. Gilmore, Park and Wellzel are in charge of lighthouses and fortifications. Grierson is commanding a colored regiment in Texas.

A few of the active Republican politicians of this State had a grand pow-wow at the Narragansett Hotel in Providence, yesterday. There were representatives present from all parts of the State. Speeches were made by Senator Alrich, Representative Spooner and others, and arrangements were made to get the Republican voters to register for next year's campaign. There is a strong indication that next year's campaign in this State will be a very close one. Both parties will doubtless do all they can to "save the State."

The R. I. Democrat holds its colors for 1884; Tilden and Hendricks is its ticket. It looks now as though the Democrat is not far out of the way. The old ticket has had quite a boom since election, and if Tilden wants the next Democratic nomination he will probably have it. The Democrat says: "No man can carry New York in 1884 against Chester A. Arthur except Samuel J. Tilden."

President Arthur's cabinet is thus described by a writer in the Troy Times: "Brewster is the most punctilious member, Frelinghuysen the most aristocratic, Lincoln the quietest, Graham the ablest, Folger the most judicial, Teller and Chandler are the two who keep track of things generally and the hardest workers."

One hundred and fifty thousand dollars have been raised by subscription for the purpose of establishing a general Unitarian headquarters in Boston, and immediate steps will be taken to purchase an eligible site and suitable buildings.

Friends of Thurman say that if he is beaten for the Ohio Senate he will be by the money of Bookwalter and Payne. The latter, it is intimated, will be generously assisted by the Standard Oil Company, of which he is a member.

Gen. Sherman spoke out with his wonted honest indiscretion in telling the old soldiers, at their reception to him in New York, that he would rather meet "you boys" than all the Vanderbilts and men of that stamp in New York.

Rear Admiral Worden, who commanded the Monitor in his gallant fight with the Merrimack, is still in the service, though age and infirmities prevent him from doing active service.

Dr. J. Marion Sims.

Dr. J. Marion Sims, an eminent physician in New York, and well known as one of our summer residents, died suddenly in New York Tuesday, of heart disease. Dr. Sims has had an eventful career. He was born in Lancaster District, S. C., January 25, 1815, so that at the time of his death he was in the seventy-first year of his age. He was graduated at the South Carolina College in 1833, and studied medicine at Charleston and at the Jefferson Medical College in Philadelphia. In 1836 he settled at Montgomery, Ala., and it was there that he began to build up the reputation for daring and skillful surgery which has since extended throughout the civilized world. It was in 1845 that he began the remarkable series of experiments in uterine surgery that soon made him celebrated. In 1853 he went to New York, and practiced there continuously for eight years. During that time his efforts were successful in causing the establishment of a hospital for women. He went to Europe in 1861 and 1864, and finally took up his residence in the "American colony" in Paris. He was very much interested not only in what was going on in his profession, but in a social way also, and shared the occupations and pleasures of his children heartily. In 1870, after a hard struggle, he succeeded in organizing in Paris the Anglo-American ambulance corps, which has done such efficient service.

THE METEOR.

Work on the Dome Steamer of Astonishing Cleverness and Small Performance.

Ever since the dome steamer Meteor, in whose behalf such extravagant claims were made, failed so signally, applications have been made to the Herald for information concerning her. A number of people, with more or less right to make demands, endeavored to go on board the Meteor when she was in dock at the foot of West Thirtieth street, but were refused on one pretext or another. In fact, since her engines made a half turn she then refused to go further every one, save the owners and managers and such persons as they employed, is refused admission.

A vessel that was to go to Europe in five days (in the prospectus) and could not (in the dock) make an inch headway was in many respects unique. In respect to uniqueness the Meteor was not a failure, in this one particular she was a marked success. For about two months after her failure the Meteor was moored at the foot of West Thirtieth street, alongside the dock of the Delaware from Works, and while here a survey was made of her by engineers employed by the Boston capitalists who advanced the money for the construction. These gentlemen having completed their work, the Meteor was taken down to Gowanus, where she now lies awaiting repairs and alterations said to be necessary in her machinery before she can again venture on a trial trip.

In the machinery the trouble was located, and the experts claim that in design and construction, or, more properly, in fitting, it has been bungled. They are now at work devising plans to remedy the defects, and another trial trip.

The above clipping is from the New York Herald of the 7th inst., and the facts of the case do not correspond with facts in possession of the writer. If he has (as he thinks) been correctly informed, The Meteor, instead of lying at Gowanus, is at a wharf in East Boston, Mass., to which place she was towed several weeks since from New York. The machinery originally placed in her, and which proved a failure, has been taken out of her, and a contract has been made with Mr. George M. Crockett, at 280 Dyer street, Providence, R. I., to build a four cylinder engine (not compounded in any way) but which it is thought will produce the desired results, if any style of engine can do so. Drawings have already been made, but for some cause the work has been temporarily discontinued.

The steam yacht Natalie, of Bridgeport, Conn., has in her a Crockett engine, four cylinder engine, and she is considered to be a most remarkably fast boat, and started from Providence last fall on an engineer's trial trip, but after proceeding a short distance, her wheel fouled something, which broke it, and in consequence of which, we suppose, no mention was made, but up to the time of this accident, she proved herself to be a hummer.

Newark's population is steadily diminishing. It numbered only 62,000 in 1880, and it is estimated, that if the present ratio of shrinkage continues it will be less than 40,000 in 1890.

Shillaber, and will be remembered as the Captain of a New York clipper ship that defeated and sailed away from the rebel pirate Semmes, at sea, during the war and brought his vessel with her valuable cargo of tea safely to this port. The remains of Capt. Dillingham will be taken to Chelsea for interment. He was about 40 years of age and was held in high estimation by the merchant and shipping community of this city and Boston.

Notes and Hints.

Before the ground freezes up in the fall many odd jobs can be done that will be nearly impossible thereafter. One of these is to provide an outlet for the surplus water in barnyards so that it will neither run to waste nor become a nuisance. If it runs over a grass plot on the surface, and is thence conducted to a place where it will soak into an under-drain, very little will be lost.

The tallest, straightest trees in the nursery row do not generally make the best in the orchard. Their unchecked growth is an indication that they have never been root pruned. In transplanting, their long, slim roots are cut off and they suffer. The stocky looking—not stunted—trees have their roots in more compact shape and most of them can be saved by carefulness in digging.

With the beginning of cold weather or fattening stock need warmer quarters or they will gain slowly. Hogs, if fattened sufficiently, may be more profitably killed now than kept to a later period. It is certain that the increased weight will be less in proportion to the food consumed, and it is never certain that the price of pork will advance proportionally.

No kind of fruit keeps well unless thoroughly ripened. Unripe grapes are the fruit that most attempt to save, but it is always a failure. They are of some use if canned, but need an extraordinary amount of sugar. Some Hudson River grape growers report attempts at wine making from frozen grapes, but those will probably not be successful.

A Michigan farmer, who last year put a portion of his corn fodder in his silo about, intending to save the expense and trouble of cutting, if it were possible, reports that when he came near the bottom of the silo, where the ensilage is generally the best, he found a number of tons decayed, which he laid to the large stalks having been put in whole.

Apple pomace kills vegetation where it is applied; but by composting a year, adding plenty of lime to neutralize the acid it contains, it makes very good top-dressing for grass. So poisonous to vegetable life is the acid of apples that even a few lying under a tree will kill the grass where they lay so that it will not start in the spring.

All kinds of roots keep better in cellars if slightly covered with dry earth. This is especially true of turnips which, unless so covered, soon become stringy and nearly worthless. Most cellars are too warm and dry for any kind of roots or fruit, and only sufficient should be so stored for use when pits out of doors cannot be reached.

Where the ground is in good shape for digging, making under-drains may be continued until late in the fall or in open weather during the winter. If a little loose earth is left in the bottom of the drain over night it will rarely freeze deeply enough to hinder work the next day, if no storm comes on to prevent operations.

Partially rotten potatoes are not good food for milch cows. They are unwholesome; they impart a disagreeable flavor to the milk and injure its keeping qualities, and also that of the butter made from it. Even cooking will not make them proper food. Better throw them away.

A week or ten days is a sufficiently long time in which to fatten turkeys if they are put in a dark place, kept quiet and given all that they can eat at regular intervals. With a longer period of stuffing some will lose rather than gain flesh.

One of the last matters for attention in the garden in the fall is to plow it. Leave the surface as rough as possible, that frost may work it down, especially if the soil be rather heavy. This treatment will make it easily worked early in the spring.

When pigs are fed plentifully with soft corn, as is common at this season, it scours their stomachs, and charcoal should be given as a corrective. It will be greatly eaten, and will enable the pigs to dispose of more corn and with better prospect of gain.

Wheat sown so late that it freezes in the ground and does not come up until spring occasionally makes a good crop. In the early history of the country this late seeding was a common practice.

Spinach may still be sown in warm rich ground. It may be sown until the ground freezes hard and winter sets in.

The editor of the "Dairy" has been figuring up the value of the corn crop of the country, and the result is rather astonishing. He says corn is a species of grass, and may be considered the most valuable grass in existence, for if we consider that there is 100 lbs. of dry fodder, for every bushel of grain, this product alone is equal to 87,500,000 tons of fodder, which is nearly as much as all the hay made. But there is the grain, which at 30 cents a bushel equals $525,000,000; and the fodder at $5 a ton is worth $435,000,000. Here is at a moderate estimate a thousand million dollars of yearly product from corn. And so far as beef, pork, butter, cheese, poultry and milk are concerned, we may consider that a very large portion of them are corn.

We have time and again written against the folly of dairymen trying to fatten their old cows at a profit. It cannot be done, and if any farmer wishes to try it let him have them at any price. If a man has more grass or other feed than he knows what to do with let him buy some lively young steers and make money with them instead of wasting his time and feed on the remains of an old cow. The "Provisioner" of England on this subject says: "Old animals can seldom be fattened at a profit, even if their flesh be as valuable as that of younger ones, because it requires so much more time and feed to do it." What we particularly object to in old cows for fattening is the immense proportion of offal in them. A pot-belly makes no beef.

Sheep will bear more exposure than any other domestic animal, but even they winter poorly without a good shelter. Sheds and yards should now be put in order, that there may be no delays in getting the flocks into their winter quarters. Ewes should now be with young, excepting when late lambs are desired. Half a pint of corn per day will aid in keeping each ewe in a good condition. All weak sheep should be placed by themselves and fattened for market. It does not pay to keep second-rate animals.

Manure pear trees in the fall. Fresh manure applied in the spring is liable to produce blight.

Plough for next year's crop early so that the rain and warm weather will rot the soil.

Cooking Potatoes.

The universal principle of cooking all vegetables must not be forgotten in preparing potatoes, for the addition of salt even with the potato is most essential. The quantity, of course, varies much, but will generally be found to be of the proportion of a large tablespoonful to half a gallon of water. Most vegetables require to be plunged into boiling water; but in some cases the potato forms an exception, for old potatoes should be placed in cold water, otherwise, the outside would become pulpy or watery before the inside got soft. Middle-aged potatoes should be boiled in lukewarm water, and now follow the almost universal rule of being plunged into boiling water, in which, if fixed, a little mint may have been placed. When quite new, they require only to be rubbed in a cloth, not peeled. Potatoes which cannot come under the head of new, should be well washed, and, to my thinking, those boiled in their skins are preferable; but as this is an idea in which many of your readers may not concur, let them select the quantity they require, and peel with a sharp knife (it a peeler, a most useful and inexpensive adjunct to the kitchen, be not handy), and place them in a steamer; pour the water over them with the addition of a little salt, then put the lid on, and it does not fit quite close place a weight on the top, or the bubbling of the water will force it open and thus allow some of the steam to evaporate. Thus keep them for ten minutes, and after drain all the water off; by this means, the water having no time to soak in, the potatoes will become mealy, otherwise they often appear semi-mashed. Then place the steamer on the boiler at the side of the fire, with a cloth, folded into several thicknesses, over the potatoes instead of the lid. The yellow potato, though not so slightly on the dinner table as its brother the mealy, has the advantage of being a better boiler, and one which does not require so much attention, not being so readily broken. To steam (by adopting which method the potato becomes more digestible and more mealy in appearance), first wash and pare, then throw each as it is finished into cold water; drain and put into a steamer, which place on an ordinary saucepan, filled with boiling water. Be careful that your steamer fits quite tightly, or the steam escaping will not allow the vegetable to cook; cover closely, and keep them boiling until sufficiently cooked, which can be ascertained by plunging a fork into one. If done, the potato will appear soft. Shake the steamer over a bowl a few times in order to give them a mealy look. The time depends much on both the size and the kind of potato, but varies from twenty to fifty minutes.

Recipes for the Table.

SQUASH CAKE.—Seven two and one half cups of cooked squash; add one pint of milk, two eggs, a pint of flour, one teaspoonful of sugar, two teaspoonfuls of baking powder and a little salt. Beat together until smooth and fry brown in butter.

INDIAN GRIDDLECAKES.—One quart of sour milk, one large tablespoonful of butter, melted after measuring, two eggs, two teaspoonfuls of salt; make a thin batter of two-thirds Indian meal and one-third wheat flour.

TAPIOCA CUP PUDDING.—An even tablespoonful of best tapioca soaked for two hours in nearly a cup of new milk; stir into this the yolk of a fresh egg, a little sugar, a grain of salt, and bake it in a cup for fifteen minutes. A little jelly may be eaten with it.

GINGER POUND CAKE.—Take one cup and a half of sugar, one cup of molasses, three cups of flour, four eggs, one tablespoonful each of ginger and of cinnamon, one teaspoonful of soda dissolved in a little hot water. Bake in shallow pans in a moderate oven for half an hour.

A NICE DESSERT.—Put a layer of sugar in a quart bowl, then a layer of tart apples, then of sugar, then of apples, till the bowl is full; then a half teaspoon of water; set in the oven with a slow fire for two or three hours, with a cover on the bowl. Set away to cool, turn out on a plate, and you have a layer of jelly and of apples.

PICKLED QUINCES.—Pare and cut half a dozen quinces into small pieces, and put them, with a gallon of water and two pounds of honey, into a large saucepan; mix them together well, and set them on a slow fire for half an hour. When quite cold, wipe the quinces perfectly dry and put them into it. Cover very close.

CROWFOOT PUDDING.—Take nice cooking apples, peel and quarter them, and lay over the bottom of a long bread pan, take one cup of water, two eggs, one cup of sugar, mix two teaspoonfuls of baking powder in a cup of flour and make a batter about as thick as for sponge cake, pour this over the apples, set in the oven immediately and bake half an hour; set warm with cream.

APPLE SHOW.—Boil six apples, press them through a sieve, adding loaf sugar and a little lemon juice. Whisk the whites of six eggs, powdering them during the time with two tablespoonfuls of castor sugar. Beat the apple to a froth, then add the whites of eggs and whisk them well together until quite stiff and snow like. Pipe them high in rough spoonfuls on a glass dish, rising to a point in the center.

FRIED CELERY.—Cut the celery into pieces three or four inches long; boil them tender in salted water; drain them; make a batter in the proportion of two eggs to a cupful of rich milk; mix flour or fine bread or cracker crumbs, enough to give it consistency; roll the pieces of celery in it, and fry them to a light brown in hot lard. Serve very hot. Celery can also be cooked as asparagus, boiled tender, and served with a white sauce.

Hints for the Ladies.

Cardinal slippers to be worn with black, and chamis slippers to be worn with blue stockings, are the latest.

Figured serges are favorites with the London dressmakers. Their design is groups of flowers or fruit, either scattered or laid on a tulle.

Among the new shapes invented for little caps is one which has the front and back terminating in the shape of the ace of spades. This cap has a sleeve which is sewed in only at the top and is fastened on the sides with a braided ornament. It may be of fancy velvet or of plush.

A new lace called Calais has the figures of men and women in Norman costume worked upon it. It is a French version of the Greenway embroidery, and it is made into bibs, scarfs and ties in white, black and terra cotta.

Roman sandals with the straps fastened by silver buckles are among the winter's substitutes for Cinderella's slipper.

A variation on the little caps matching the dress has the crown falling at the side with a tassel like a Hussar cap.

A London firm has invented a combination of a puffed lace sleeve and a long glove, an arrangement which keeps the glove in place perfectly, and yet allows it to wrinkle as much as fashion requires.

A new English pattern for a waterproof is a coat with high shoulders and a full puffed back. It is made in waterproof cloth.

It is essential that there should be three materials, three colors or three shades in all new London costumes.

A very small collar or a long, slender flat tippet are the prettiest styles of small fur garments.

CONSUMPTION CURED.—An old physician, retired from practice, having had placed in his hands by an East India missionary the formula of a simple vegetable remedy for the speedy and permanent cure of Consumption, Bronchitis, Catarrh, Asthma and all throat and Lung Affections, also a positive and radical cure for Nervous Debility and all Nervous Complaints, after having tested his wonderful curative powers in thousands of cases, has felt it his duty to make it known to his suffering fellow-men. Address: Send for a copy of this paper, with a full and complete description of the cure, and a list of the names of the physicians who have cured their patients of Consumption, Nervous Debility, and all other diseases, by the use of this simple vegetable remedy. ## BLOCK ISLAND.

The Sunday School on the Neck gave their monthly concert last Sunday evening. The meeting was called to order at 7 o'clock by Mr. H. F. Gardner, the superintendent. Prayer was offered by Rev. C. Braithwaite, pastor of the Central church, and there was singing by the school. Miss Annie Rose gave a pleasing recitation, entitled "A Greeting to All." Temperance pieces were spoken by twenty-five boys. An exceedingly interesting dialogue entitled "What are we doing?" was spoken by nine young girls. Miss Annie Hayes gave a recitation entitled "Welcome Little Pilgrim." There were in all nearly one hundred pieces spoken. The closing recitation was by Miss Annie Rose entitled "My Mother's Bible." This school which is carrying on a generous rivalry with the Center school has improved wonderfully since the last concert. Much credit is due the committee for the excellence of this entertainment. The committee were Mrs. C. E. Perry, Mrs. William Littlefield and Miss Annie Sheffield. Many thanks were extended to the teacher, Miss Sheffield, a large bouquet was presented her by Mr. F. A. Rose in behalf of the school. There were some two hundred people present.

Jewelry-making is the big business of Providence. There are 181 manufacturing establishments, employing about 3500 hands and turning out $5,775,975 worth of goods annually. The manufacture began there soon after the Revolution, and in 1805 there were four establishments. The city also makes 87 per cent. of the screws used in the country, and 2,540,000 pieces of print during the year. There are, all told, 2333 manufacturing establishments in the city, with a total capital of $28,937,659, employing 26,278 hands and turning out a yearly product of $49,121,038. Of these 2333 factories, breweries and liquors have the greatest number, 435; clothing next, 315; jewelry next, 184; and boots and shoes 147. The hardware, sewing-machine and screw factories have the most capital invested. $3,800,000; jewelry next, $3,225,000; chemicals, $2,000,000; machinery, steam engines and clothing each over $1,500,000, and woolen mills and silverware over $1,000,000. The jewelry product is much the most valuable, $5,775,975, nothing else reaching $3,000,000, and only steam engines, chemicals and drugs, clothing, hardware and silverware turning out over $2,000,000.

The State Fish Commissioners of Rhode Island have received from the U. S. fish commission 1,000 carp, which are to be distributed throughout the State to all persons who have suitable ponds or brooks in which to keep them.

It is said that the owners of the steamer Ella expect to build or buy a fast boat to take the place of that vessel on the Norwich and Watch Hill route next summer.

Ex-Gov. Littlefield and brother have gone to California for a month's trip.

Massachusetts and Rhode Island are the only States which now elect all State officers and legislature every year, and only six States have sessions of the legislature every year.

A large oak tree on the line of the Stonington Railroad was blown down by the gale Monday night and fell directly across the track. A man was sent from Providence with a lantern to warn the Shore Line train if it should prove necessary. His light went out and the only thing left for him to do was to throw the lantern into the cab to alarm the engineer, which he did successfully, and the train soon came to a halt.

Admiral J. B. Creighton, U. S. Navy, died at Morristown, N. J., Tuesday, of heart trouble. He was a native of Rhode Island, from which State he was appointed to the Navy in 1835. He attained a Lieutenant in 1853, and was commissioned as Commander in 1862. During the war of the Rebellion he commanded various ships, and while in command of the steamer Mingo of the South Atlantic Blockading Squadron took possession of Georgetown, S. C., which he held until relieved by the army. He received his Captain's commission in 1868, became Commodore in 1874, and was promoted to be Admiral a few months ago.

George Gardiner, brakeman on the Shore Line freight train, was killed by striking his head against a bridge near Roger Williams Park, Wednesday morning.

CONNECTICUT.

Five Swamp, a somewhat celebrated place in Ledyard, is to be sold and the wood cut off. This swamp consists of an island several acres in extent, surrounded by an almost impassable morass and quicksands, which cover the country for miles in either direction. It is in the southern part of the town of Ledyard, and until twenty years ago was a solid forest of fragrant white pine trees and beautiful rhododendrons. When the locality was first settled, and for many years thereafter, the inhabitants used to depend upon "the great pine Swamp," or "Mast Swamp," as they better knew it, for the masts of their ships and shallops. There were no trees suitable for masts, save those, within hundreds of miles. Then, as now, it was impossible to enter the swamp save when its slimy black bogs and oozed-covered shallows were frozen, affording a crust to support the men and teams of oxen engaged in logging. It was the scene of one of the most tragic happenings of the Pequod war, when after the destruction of the fort by Captain Mason, a band of Pequots were driven into the island and starved into submission, and after surrender either killed or reduced to slavery.

The latest oyster yarn is that a syndicate of New York and Chicago capitalists are trying to buy up all the beds about New Haven and put them into the control of one big company, which would be a cheap method of killing off star fish, invented by a German. New Haven dealers say it can't be done.

On a rocky cliff in the town of Warren, sixty miles north of Bridgeport, whose summit is 2000 feet above the level of Long Island Sound, a tower 125 feet high is to be erected, in which is to be placed a powerful telescope. From the summit of the cliff on a clear day a fine view can be had of the surrounding country for a distance of one hundred miles. When the tower is erected it is believed that the Brooklyn Bridge, the Palisades of the Hudson, and many other distant points can be seen.

MASSACHUSETTS.

A skeleton was found in the woods in Manchester, Wednesday, which is now believed to be that of Rufus Bingham, of Gloucester, who has been missing since September, 1882. There were no marks of violence, but a handkerchief was knotted around the throat, with a piece of stick in it.

TIVERTON.

A New Bridge.—A few teams have ventured to cross the new Quaker bridge, although the roadway is not yet finished, having in some places to be filled in two feet or more. We hear that some parties have, by the action of the contractors in laying the stringers over the water passage on the Sabbath, had their sailboats locked into the pond and do not relish the same, yet claim that the action of the old Town Council in allowing a closed bridge to be built instead of a draw, thereby closing navigable waters, exceeded their authority, and are using their influence for compelling a draw to be put into the bridge.

The gale was the most destructive one that has visited these parts for a year, blowing down fruit trees, stacks, chimneys, overturning well-houses, etc. It was a veritable lifter. Many laid awake nights rocked by the wind.

PORTSMOUTH.

An instrument, in writing, purporting to be the last will and testament of Lucy C. Anthony was presented, received and read, and notice ordered thereon. Chase for services and expenses as Town Clerk, $15.75; Frederick U. Tallman, Town Sergeant, for warbling juncos $2; and Henry Anthony, council fees $2.50. Adjourned to second Monday in December.

Happiness is something to hope for and something to love.

A Splendid Remedy for Lung Diseases. Dr. Robt. Sewton, late President of the Eclectic College of the City of New York, and formerly of Cincinnati, Ohio, used Dr. Wm. H. Chase's very valuable ointment in his practice, as many of his patients, now living, and restored to health by the use of this invaluable medicine, can amply testify. He always said that no remedy was so sure and so safe as this ointment, and that it ought to be prescribed freely by every physician as a sovereign remedy in all cases of lung diseases. It is a sure cure for Consumption, and has no equal for all pectoral complaints.

We desire to call the attention of the public to Kellinger's Liniment, one of the best preparations ever put up for all general purposes for which a Liniment is used. Notice letters from the head it relieves headache, and prevents the hair from falling out.

Pleasant, healthy grins are seen only on the faces of healthy children. They are healthy and debilitated can smile only to a half-hearted way. Purify the blood, tonify the stomach, and strengthen the system with Burdock Blood Purifier. If you wish to laugh well and often.

Will It Really Cure Rheumatism? We answer, honor bright, it will cure rheumatism, and the severest cases too. Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil was specially prepared for the rheumatic and lame. Notice letters from the people relative to its merits in nearly every paper in the country.

It is a good thing to learn a caution by the misfortune of others.

NO HOUSEHOLD SHOULD be without "Pearl's White Glycerine." It has a wonderful affinity for the skin; cuts, bruises, sores, etc., are rapidly healed and cured. Its effect upon the skin is wonderful, penetrating it without injury, leaving it pure, clear and white.

REWARD TO ENTERPRISE. Five years ago, James Pyle of New York, first introduced his celebrated Pearline to the public and now the name of Pearline is everywhere known. It is a household word, and millions upon millions of packages are annually consumed by our intelligent housekeepers.
